

Light and Darkness

Light and darkness cannot cohabitate. Do not think it strange that some others – those of the worldly mindset – do not like you. I don't find it strange, I don't find it strange at all.

I experienced it frequently My child, why would you expect otherwise from them.

In this world but not of this world, remember...

You understand their mindset for you were once like them, yet they don't understand your mindset for they were never like you – for if they were, they would not have fallen for the lies of the world.

Precious child you hold onto Me and that is all that counts.

Keep holding on, keep holding out, I am coming through for you... Soon...

Jaco Kruger

15 March 2010

www.pojc.org

info@pojc.org