

Flight of the eagle

The winds of change are coming. The flight of the eagle is a majestic thing to behold. But you have not seen yourself as an eagle, more as a squawking bird at times, feeling like you screech more for attention than scream like an eagle in flight. But you mistake dear child, I have been preparing you, training your voice and ear and eye for the true flight, not the test flights you have taken, landing just after you take off, time and time again, too afraid to soar , afraid I won't carry you, afraid My Wind will be taken away mid flight. Never child, you are an eagle and born to soar, and you will do so sooner than you think, and when you take off then you will never land again. Open eyes, open spirit, open mind, endless possibilities.

Jaco Kruger 24 May 2009

info@poj.org

www.poj.org

~ Jaco Kruger ~ <http://www.poj.org> ~